COMMENT

After such a beautiful weekend, spring conditions are back. We are open today, all day. The sliding conditions will undoubtedly be excellent, as there is no need for sharp edges. With the positive temperature, we will have a softened surface, perfect for turns without skidding. We dress correctly, enjoy the mountain air, the fireplace at Chalet 840, and we will be happy to have gone outside. At 5 a.m. this morning, the temperature was 12°C under cloud cover. Eleven slopes will be open, along with three ski lifts, including the magic carpet. The main chalet and Chalet 840 at the summit are also open as a refuge. It is expected that sliding conditions will vary throughout the day, and open areas on the slopes may appear. It is possible for the number of open trails to vary according to the recommendations and inspections of the ski patrol, as for every day. Our slopes maintenance and snowmaking teams are off duty until after the New Year since temperatures will drop below freezing after that date. Alpine touring trails are closed until new snow.
